

These House Plans are Copyrighted. Like authors, photographers, and musicians, architects are protected by copyright laws. Federal laws were established to safeguard the intellectual property of architects. Copyright law prohibits using an architect's designs or drawings without written permission of the architect.

Don't Copy These Plans. It is against the law to copy designs or drawings found in plan books, brochures, magazines, or on the Internet. Many people believe it's acceptable to copy or adapt a design from a publication or the web and build a house. Copying or modifying any existing built home or house plan that is copyrighted is not allowed ... it's illegal.
